Born April 26, 1986, in Briansk, Russia, Sasha has since lived in Germany and has now settled in France.

The singer-songwriter-electropoet is a fervent admirer of French romantic pop blended with danceable electro-pop from the east. His song Draped In A Dragon is in the vein of the 80s with synthpop and synthesizers.

Sasha welcomed his fans into the creative process of his art, allowing hundreds of them to explore the behind the scenes of the recording session of Draped In A Dragon:

THE LABELS' TAKE

Draped In A Dragon will seduce you with its lively and light rhythm. This no-frills pop tastes like a fruity dessert, with no added sugars.

We immediately fell in love with Sasha when we first discovered him. We felt that his music, at the same time touching, joyful and naive, deserved to be heard by a wider audience.

The desire to support him in the production and distribution of this first song was so strong that we decided to venture into a field that historically is not ours: music production.

We secured seasoned composer Corentin Kerdraon; the duo left the studio with Draped In A Dragon, a very catchy gem.

After a recording session at the legendary Parisian studio CBE in February 2021, the song and the music video are now available on all streaming platforms and social networks.
